Reading Visits Forestry School

G. P. Redding, assistant forester of the United States in charge of public relations, was a visitor in the Forestry school yesterday. Mr. Redding has charge of state and private cooperation in conjunction to public relations.

VARSITY OFFICIALS HEAD FOREST TRIPS

Dean T. C. Spaulding, of the Forestry school, and Dr. W. E. Schreiber, of the Physical Education department, will be in charge of a series of tours to the U. S. National forests in Montana this summer for the Northern Pacific railroad. Dean Spaulding will have general charge of the tours and Dr. Schreiber will take care of the physical welfare of the visitors.

"The Northern Pacific railroad in common with other railroads of the west, is extremely interested in exploiting the recreational possibilities, not only of the national parks, but of the national forests in Montana," Dean Spaulding said. "In the past, much has been done toward advertising national parks, not only from a scenic, but also an educational standpoint. Two of the national forests in Montana, the Bear Tooth, south of Billings and the Absarokee, south of Livingston, are of unsurpassed beauty, as is the Shoshoni forest in Wyoming."

"In order that the people in the eastern part of the United States may become acquainted with these national forests, the tours are being arranged chiefly for the benefit of the young men in the academies in the northeastern part of the country. The tours will not only acquaint the young men with the country, but will also show them what the forest service is actually doing and enable them to see the opportunities of the service."

CLARK TO LECTURE ON MODERN SPAIN

Is Spain a land of coy señoritas and low-wailing guitars? Dr. C. U. Clark, who speaks in the University auditorium Thursday, March 18, answers that question and portrays Spain as it is today, illustrating his lecture with lantern slides.

"The slides he shows of Spanish scenery are beautiful and his gossipy talk about the country of Don Quixote is quite fascinating," says a Vancouver paper. "Spaniards do not play Rugby. That is far too brutal" for them. Now a bullfight is bad for the bull, sometimes bad for the professional bullfighters, who take risks, but Rugby played by amateurs, leads to many casualties, far more than at bullfights, so the Spaniard will say, and perhaps he is right. But Association football is all the rage. One day a bullfight and a football match were announced, and the bullfight was abandoned for the football. In all Spain there are only three bullfights which are paying their way."

Makes You Know Spain

Dr. Clark makes you know the country, which improves an acquaintance. Tickets, at 50 cents, will be sold by members of the Spanish club, which organization is sponsoring his appearance here.

AWS Discusses WAA Delegate; Will Vote At the Next Meeting

The question as to whether a delegate will be sent from the University to the Women's Athletic Association conference to be held at Pullman, Washington, April 15, 16 and 17, was discussed at the AWS cabinet meeting yesterday. Members of AWS will take the matter before their different organizations and the question will be voted upon at the next meeting. If favorable, a delegate will be selected at that time.

At present the local WAA is part of AWS. It is hoped that by sending a delegate to this conference plans may be secured for forming of a separate organization that will give WAA a separate place on the campus. With the increase in the number of women's athletics and with the interest shown this year, this move has been thought advisable, according to Marcia Patterson, president of AWS. University women are also asked to present problems which they would like discussed at the AWS conference to be held in Los Angeles in April.

ALUMNI CLUB ENTERTAINS

Michigan Alumni club will entertain the University of Montana club at the Tavern, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Dr. C. A. Schenck and Ed Mulrooney will speak. Music for the occasion will be furnished by two quartettes.

Students Must Sign for Spring Quarter Classes by March 19

All students who intend to register for the spring quarter must turn in their handbooks and receive registration forms at the Registrar's office either Thursday or Friday. Registration must be finished by 4 p. m., Friday, March 19. No one will be allowed to register from March 20 to 29, inclusive, and after that time a late registration fee will be charged.

The new plan, whereby all students register during the same week, will give those students who register early an advantage of getting into those classes in which the membership is limited.

RADIO STATIONS HOPE TO ADOPT NEW PLAN

KUOM Endeavoring to Secure Topics From Prominent Men of Country

The Association of University and College Broadcasting Stations is endeavoring to secure statements from prominent men throughout the country on topics of national and international interest, which will be scheduled and released from University and college stations. It is thought that this plan, the credit of which goes to G. D. Shallenberger, director of the University broadcasting station, will add to the effectiveness of these stations.

The text of the plan follows:

"An attempt will be made to secure written statements and discussions on the great questions of the day from men of nationwide reputation, the statements to be given out exclusively by the association and so distributed as to reach the various stations, as nearly as possible, on the same date, with a specified date of release," according to J. C. Jensen, secretary of the association. "There will be an effort to get statements from men like Secretary Hoover, Chief Justice Taft, Charles E. Hughes, R. A. Millikan, Michael Pupin and a host of others in high places in church and state, and to broadcast them in the nature of an open forum."

CLUB MEMBERS MEET AT HOME OF MRS. LAYFIELD

Mrs. Thomas Layfield, of 435 South Sixth Street East, was hostess to the International club of the University at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

During the business meeting a committee was appointed to solicit money from members of the club for the fund which is to be used by the School of Religion to buy a building site. It was also decided to get in touch with the International club at Kansas University, in order to secure better cooperation among like clubs over the western district, of which Kansas is the head. A resolution to invite a member of the faculty of the University to speak on some topic of world interest at each succeeding meeting of the club this year, was passed.

Entertainment was furnished by J. M. Rosenthal at the piano, Richard Romersa with the xylophone and by Mrs. H. E. High, who gave several vocal selections. The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games, following which refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting of the club will take place at the home of William L. Young, the first Friday in April.

ALCHEMISTS HOLD LAST MEETING OF QUARTER

Members of the Alchemists club held their last meeting of the quarter Thursday night in the Science hall. Besides the regular business which was transacted it was decided to postpone the party planned for this quarter until about the third week in April, when the club will probably give a dance.

Plans to have various professors on the campus address the club at an early meeting next quarter were also discussed. The club will meet again the first Thursday of the spring quarter.

MIRRIELES PRAISES LOUIS UNTERMAYER

Lucia Mirrieles, assistant professor in the English department, received word from her sister, Miss Edith Mirrieles, of the English faculty at Stanford, saying that an enthusiastic reception was given Louis Untermeyer at Stanford, where he spent two days last week. "He gave not only a highly entertaining and appreciative lecture," said Miss Mirrieles, "but at the same time presented a sympathetic interpretation of modern verse such as few of us have an opportunity to hear."

Miss Lucia Mirrieles said of the noted lecturer, "Unlike many public readers he has apparently no set speech to deliver, but watches his audience, notes their interest and delightfully varies his talk, all the while selecting his illustrative poems to suit their taste. I believe it is this responsiveness that makes him so immediately popular with an audience."

Is Heavily Applauded

"When I heard him last summer at Read Leaf, a school of English connected with Middlebury college, Vermont, he was given an ovation such as few public readers, I believe, receive. After a long and very delightful interpretation of serious verse the audience refused to go home and demanded that he read some of his parodies of famous poets. Finally he responded and entertained the audience for another half hour by reading some of his parodies from his volumes "On Horace" and "And Others."

AWS CANDIDATES MUST FILE SOON SAYS PATTERSON

Candidates will present their platforms at an AWS convocation March 19.

Everyone is urged to turn in manuscripts for May Fete by March 22. A $10 prize will be given the man or woman submitting the best paper. Petitions for May Fete manager are also due March 22. May Fete will be produced May 22, according to the calendar planned yesterday.

Glee Club State Tour Successful, According to Newspaper Reports

Tickets for the Missoula concert of the University Glee club, which is now touring the state under the direction of Dean De Loss Smith, will be placed on sale on the campus Wednesday by Tanans and a few members of the Women's Glee club. The Missoula concert will be given March 17 at the Wilma theatre.

Reports from Butte and Livingston indicate that the club is making a greater success than ever before. Both the Butte Miner and the Anaconda Standard were very generous in their praise of the collegiate songsters. Returns from the Butte concert are the largest ever received in that city. Livingston crowds filled the house when the club appeared there Friday evening.

Playing in Billings tonight, the club will visit five more Montana cities, Roundup, Harlowton, Lewistown, Great Falls and Helena, before returning to Missoula, Sunday, March 14.

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION MAKES HARRIET SEDMAN AN HONORARY MEMBER

Dean Harriet Sedman has been recently elected an honorary member of the American Women's Association, which is to hold a mass meeting in tribute to business and professional women at Madison Square Gardens, New York City, March 18. Mrs. Sedman is not planning on attending the meeting.

Forty-nine women were selected from the different states and the District of Columbia with the help of newspapers, members of congress, chambers of commerce and women's organizations. Mrs. Sedman represents Montana in this group.

LAWYERS TO HEAR HOUSMAN

R. L. Housman, of the School of Journalism, will read a paper at the Law School smoker to be held Tuesday, March 16. It is promised by members of the school that the program for the evening will be interesting, and that further entertainment will be provided. Members of the downtown law association will be guests.

Appreciative Audiences Fill Wilma for Both Shows; Decisions Close

Kappa Alpha Theta presenting "The Land of the Stars" and Kappa Kappa Gamma in "Between the Dark and the Daylight" were awarded cups for the presentation of the best acts in Friday night's Varsity Vodvil at the Wilma theatre.

Appearing before two packed and responsive houses, University talent, represented by fraternity and sorority men and women, presented what was considered to be the cleverest, funniest, and best balanced program in recent years.

From the moment the curtain was drawn at 7 o'clock until the concluding feature of the last act, the audience continuously pulsed in reaction to wise-cracks, humorous skits, and intelligent stage performance in a manner which might well flatter professional circuits.

Interest Increases

Each succeeding year Varsity Vodvil has been presented, interest on the campus as well as among town people has steadily increased. Reports from Missoula citizens indicate that pre-Vodvil anticipations were excited in almost every instance.

Finalists Waiting Gong for M Club Title Bouts Wednesday Night

With Ten Titles in Balance, M Club Affair Looms as a Thrilling Bit of Ring Entertainment

Four boxing champions, five wrestling champions and a fencing king will be crowned tomorrow night at the fourth annual "M" club tournament, the only boxing and wrestling sports program held under the auspices of the University.

Nine gold medals and a silver loving cup, given to the best individual performer, will be presented by the "M" club to the men winning the ten events. Winners of the card will also be invited to compete in the state amateur boxing and wrestling carnival which will be held in Butte the latter part of this month.

Committees of the club have been working on the program for the last month, and have everything in readiness for the greatest sports card ever staged at the University. The ticket sale, which started last week, has been very successful, the townspeople in addition to students, showing much interest in the affair. Women are especially invited. Officials have been selected and the stage is set for a banner entertainment tomorrow night at the men's gym. Principals for the first bout will enter the ring promptly at 8 o'clock.

Three Round Bouts

The boxing bouts will consist of three rounds while the wrestlers will go ten minutes to a fall or decision. In addition to the sports program the "M" club has secured the services of the Varsity Vodvil orchestra, which will furnish music during the evening. An effort was made to secure a quartette, but because the Glee club is on tour the club committee had to forego this part of the entertainment.

None of last year's champions will defend his title tonight. Bill Kelly, heavyweight king, has no aspirants for his crown, so he will not have to don the gloves. Rundle, lightweight title holder, who has been forbidden by the doctors to enter the ring and so will not be on hand to defend his title. But lack of ring generals will not detract from the show, as the boys have shown plenty of punishing ability in the preliminaries. All of the contests promise to be even and exciting.

Joe Cochran, boxing instructor, will referee the fights, and Doc

QUADRONS WILL CHOOSE ANNUAL MAY FETE QUEEN

Varsity Ball Players Begin Daily Workouts Under Coach Schreiber

Prospects Good for Coming Season; Several Pitchers Available; the New Field to be Completed Soon

Twenty-one veterans and rookies have responded to Doc Schreiber's call for diamond performers, giving followers of the national pastime every reason to look forward to an unusually successful season.

The early practices are being held in the gymnasium. Grounding, arm limbering and short pepping sessions round out the indoor work. Work on the new diamond, which will be just north and west of the new football field, is progressing, and it will undoubtedly be ready for cleats as soon as the weather permits outside workouts.

Lose Only Two

Because only two men, Stowe and Shoelotham, will be missing from last year's regular lineup, and because of several strong new contenders, competition for berths will be the fiercest that it has been for years. The hurling staff looms as being exceptionally strong, the catching position will have three or more candidates and every position in the infield and outfield will be hotly contested. The hitting strength of the team can be determined only as the season progresses, but if the Grizzlies don't sweat any more consistently than they did in 1925 they cannot hope to grab many laurels.

Those who have turned out this far are: Captain Meagher, first baseman and third sacker in the city league last summer; Kelly, catcher; O'Connor, last season's mainstay of the hurling staff; Hanson, who can chuck or play third or second; Anderson, shortstop; Illman, left fielder; Burness, hot corner man and relief pitcher; Fehlbauer, second sacker, but who will likely try for an outfield position this year; Wood, catcher and outfielder; Hunter, infielder; Rafferty, who promises to be a valuable addition to the mound staff; Fleming, first baseman and outfielder; Dohrn, second baseman; Larson, outfielder; Colville, catcher and infielder; Liefert, outfielder; Ronglien, shortstop; Kamps, initial sacker; Drew, infielder; Morrow, infielder; and W. Blue, outfielder.

Others Expected Out

The first six of the above named made letters last year. Among those expected to show in the next few days are Berg, catcher and outfielder; Tarbox, second and third baseman; Brown, city league twirling star, who did not play with the Grizzlies last spring because of a knee injury; W. Hodges, infielder.

Practice sessions start at 4 p. m. Like last year, early practice games will probably be held with the Fort Missoula club and an all-star team from the city league.

Elizabeth Ann Irwin, 27, was taken to St. Patrick's hospital Sunday suffering from what is thought to be an attack of appendicitis.

Walter Danielson and William Burnes were released from St. Patrick's hospital Saturday, having fully recovered from influenza.

A Word About Varsity Vodvil

IN a wealth of color, beautiful scenic effects, delightful costuming and unusual acting Montana's Varsity Vodvil made its 1926 appearance at the Wilma theatre Saturday night. It was an unusual show from almost every standpoint and closely approached the professional in technique and finish. From the first skit until the closing curtain the audience was treated to a rare exhibition of ability, ranging all the way from classic interpretation down to well chosen bits of humor and wit. The three girls' acts, comprising masterpieces of scenic staging and costuming, were far superior to anything that has been presented by sororities in the past, and the men's acts, while less elaborate in setting, were memorable for the dramatic, comic and musical ability displayed.

Not only was Varsity Vodvil a popular success, but it was a financial success as well. While exact figures are not available, it is estimated that the ASUM will clear in the neighborhood of $800—a sum considerably larger than anything realized in the past. This fact is decidedly comforting from the standpoint of the University treasury, but it calls attention to an evil which has been growing steadily during the past three years. Too much money is being spent by competing organizations—and this criticism applies especially to the girls' acts. It is safe to say that each of the three sororities spent close to the hundred dollar mark for the properties, costumes and settings used in Saturday's show. Unless drastic steps are taken to limit the expenses of each organization the annual Vodvil will degenerate into a cut-throat round of extravagance—with less and less emphasis being placed on real ability and an increasing premium offered for money invested. Going back to the $800 profit it might be advisable for the ASUM to set aside a generous allowance for each act, having it clearly understood that evidence of any expenditures incurred in excess of that amount would automatically disqualify the offender. Such action, by keeping the money outlay within reasonable bounds, could hardly fail to have a wholesome effect on future Varsity Vodvil productions.

Again, is it possible to judge fraternity and sorority acts by the same standard? In the girls' presentations naturally emphasis is placed on singing, dancing and costuming. In the men's acts there is seldom anything but acting—whether it happens to be classic or slap-stick. How a dancing review can be compared to a dramatic sketch is beyond understanding, unless the decision is made on the sole basis of originality. Certainly men can compete with women, but the fact remains that there is no just and reasonable way of judging the results when the presentations are entirely different.

Harold Reely, manager of Varsity Vodvil, and his assistant, Bill Garver, deserve much credit for the manner in which the show was handled. The program was well balanced and entertaining and the performances went off without a hitch.

Free Speech

MALCOLM L. STEPHENSON, editor of the Tripod, Trinity College newspaper, recently disagreed with the dean and said so. He was suspended for a month.

Dean Troxell had declared: "It is our duty in college to disregard the individual and turn out a Trinity type." The Tripod editor, asked by the dean to comment upon the statement, frankly attacked it and set up as the aim of a college the development rather than the molding of the individual. Dean Troxell replied with an order of suspension.

In commenting on Stephenson's suspension, the College of the City of New York Campus expresses the opinion that the Trinity dean is consistent, at any rate.

"If a college is to turn out a type, a puppet wrapped up in a college diploma, then there is no room for an individual who asks questions or raises objections. He is likely to gum up the college machinery. He should be discarded."

Continuing the Campus says: "We beg to differ with Dean Troxell. We quote President Mezes: 'As far as I can read it, all the educational experience I have had teaches me that men are greater than machines, that a man is more valuable than a cog, that the more free men you have in an educational enterprise, the more it is likely to succeed. . . . You cannot have a successful college that is fashioned on the pattern of an army, with the general in command, its division commanders, its brigadiers, and its colonels, and the rest of its men under orders.'"

What Should Be a Woman's Choice---Home or a Career?

Woman is entitled to a career! She is not! She should take a place in the home! She should go her own way! So go the opinions of college students of today. More than thirty squibs have been garnered in the last few days, ranging from the serious to the comic. Some of the best are printed here.

Professor Sidney Cox quotes: "It depends on the woman. The only woman whose place is in the home, exclusively, is the woman who finds fullest satisfaction for her deepest desires in that sort of life. I don't know whether there is any woman whose place is, exclusively, in public activity. But if there is, she is the woman whose deepest desires find their nearest approach to fulfillment in a career. If there is such a woman I think she is something of a monstrosity. But the women I find most interesting are those who ought to have things arranged that they can have motherhood and some kind of maternal expression, also. The nicest women that I know are very much woman, and very much person, too."

Professor E. L. Freeman—"The woman had better decide. In so far as I know they always do."

Carl Glick—"The woman's place is in the home. It doesn't matter whose home."

Professor R. L. Housman—"The woman's place is in the home. 'The man who knows' says it isn't."

Walter Nelson—"If his trousers are a better fit for her, let her wear them."

Gretchen Muckler—"Her place is not in the home if all she can find to do is to play bridge every afternoon."

Eddie Reeder—"Women have the same rights as a man and in most cases they are just as independent. Women will do what they want to."

Gordon Tucker—"If the man can cook better he should do the cooking in the home."

Robert Alling—"Women who have no desire for the home are certainly in a sorry plight. To me, they have not reached the intellectual state capable of realizing where lies their greatest happiness. Just ask any of them and they will admit happiness is what they live for."

Wilfred Fehlbauer—"As some men belong in a ditch with a pick and shovel, so some women belong behind a 5 and 10 cent counter."

Danta Hanson—"The guy who believes in economy is the man who will get married on a Saturday night, so that he and his wife can go back on shift Monday morning without either one losing any time."

Arthur Berggren—"In the majority of cases it is hardly feasible for the woman, dissuaded from a home life, for which she is usually best adapted, by the glamour of a career, to give up the domestic life. Rarely may the two be combined with success and rarely is a career the better of the two. It's up to the individual."

Woodard Dutton—"Are women entitled to a college education and a career? Why not? Go a few steps further back and ask yourself whether a woman has a right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Take away the right of cultural attainment, whether it is the type that emanates from the college classroom or from the legitimate stage, and what have you left? Life, perhaps, but not liberty and certainly not the kind of happiness that the world is looking for."

Should a career interfere with the home? That is for the woman to decide. She pays for the home—and she should decide whether or not it is worth the price.

Paul DeVore—"If hubby can afford a housekeeper, let him hire one and let wifey step."

Owing to the interest shown in the discussion it has been decided to allow comment until Thursday night. Anyone on the campus wishing to voice their mind may do so. Call the Kaimin Thursday night or leave your squib at the office in one of the baskets. The name of the winner of the two tickets to "The Learned Ladies," to be given by the University Players Friday night, will be announced and the winner's squib printed in Friday's issue of the Kaimin. The men have been expressing their opinions but the women remain silent.

Montana Fight

October 1, 1918

Slowly, the bell in the tower of old Main hall tolled ten.

A bugle slashed the air as the Stars and Stripes slid up the flag pole.

More than three hundred earnest voices repeated the oath of allegiance. Then, the strains of "America" floated across the Montana campus.

Copper, Silver and Gold had enlisted under the Red, White and Blue. The Student Army Training Corps was born.

Fight Montana

Communication

Editor of Kaimin:

Montana has one of the most beautiful campuses in the northwest, a campus, that if well taken care of, would be an asset to any institution. With spring weather here, Montana's campus is turning from a yellow to a light green, coming into its own grandeur.

If Montana's campus is to have its beauty preserved, cutting corners, making short cuts and throwing waste on the lawn, must be prohibited.

Steel pegs are being placed at the corners so as to keep the careless passer-by on the walk. A number of posters are being placed on the campus with the intention and hopes that they will be observed by trespassers.

Each year the Bear Paws strive to help keep Montana's campus looking its best, keeping the students from cutting corners or making short cuts by the use of signs (or paddles). It is hoped that it will not be necessary to use the paddle this year.

Self-respecting students should regard the campus as their own property and make every effort to abide by the posters placed on all corners now being trespassed.

CHIEF GRIZZLY.

FRONTIER MANAGER ANNOUNCES PLANS

"Copies of the winter quarter Frontier will be ready for distribution the first of next week, probably Monday evening," stated Professor Sidney H. Cox, acting head of the English department. Joran Birkland, circulation manager, has announced circulation plans for this quarter, which will be similar to those used in the past.

"Copies will be placed on sale at a special table in the library lobby where subscribers may call for their issues and single copies may be obtained. Janice Johnson, assistant circulation manager, will be in charge of the table," said Miss Birkland. "Last quarter some of the students did not call for their Frontier, but due to mailing expenses, we will follow the previous plan of having subscribers call for their copies, except, of course, those who have left school since subscribing. Their copies will be mailed." Students who failed to get their last issue may yet get one by leaving their names with the person in charge of the Frontier table. Faculty subscribers will receive their issues through the University exchange as usual. Single copies are 35 cents.

Take Advantage of Rates
During the winter quarter many students took advantage of a rate offered for five copies, which included two issues of the last year and three of this. Last fall, 50 more subscribers were added to the list. The mailing list includes many former students, according to Miss Birkland.

Dan Harrington, ex-'27, who attended the University last year and majored in English, writes from New York: "In reading the Frontier, I have discovered a feature that one doesn't notice in Montana; that is, how much the sketches and poems express Montana. It is when one is away from there, and occasionally homesick, that one especially appreciates such a feature."

Arthur Carsteni, former economics major, who is now a statistician in the department of labor for the State of Illinois, says of the fall number, "I like the Frontier better than ever before."

The last publication of "Anthology of College Verse," published by the Stratford company of Boston, Massachusetts, included two poems by Frontier contributors. Several others were given honorable mention.

THETAS AND KAPPAS TRIUMPH IN VODVIL

curtain raiser with a clever skit entitled "A Colored Revival," in which Nelson Fritz as a parson presided over a typical darky assemblage. The entire gang was on toe with negro songs and dances.

"Black Luggage," a takeoff on "White Cargo," proved a side-splitter from first to last. The audience was not alone, for the Alpha Delta Alpha boys seemed to enjoy the act considerably themselves.

A pretty girl chorus, cleverly managed, well balanced and featured with solo dancing, was produced by the Delta Gammans in "The Golden Ball." The lighting and scenery effects were an innovation in Varsity entertainment—and the novelty dances were exceptional.

Lynn Thompson and Russell Sweet, assisted by an able group of comedians and a live orchestra, featured a clever sketch by Phi Sigma Kappa, entitled "The Three Trees."

Goblins, dreams and fairies arranged in a pleasant, beautiful act which proved an outstanding attraction of the evening, was presented in "Between the Dark and the Daylight," by Kappa Kappa Gamma.

"A Hamlette Omelette," presented by Sigma Chi, was an exceptionally clever burlesque on Shakespeare. It was a difficult piece of work well done. Careful choice of characters placed this act among the leaders.

Kappa Alpha Theta gave the concluding act, "The Land of the Stars." Scenery and artistic design surrounded by splendid song and dance hits made this an unusually entertaining act. Nan Walsh, who designed and directed the act, played one of the leading roles.

Harold Reely, manager of the Vodvil, and his assistant, William Garver, deserve much praise for the manner in which the show was handled.

STRONG TEAM TO REPRESENT GRIZZLIES ON CINDER PATHS

Stewart to Have Long List of Stars Available for the 1926 Season

When Captain Milton Ritter leads his track team to the post at the quadrangular meet at Spokane April 24, he will head the strongest track squad ever to wear the Copper, Silver and Gold. Last year the Grizzlies were known as "Montana's best track team"—this year history promises to repeat itself.

Coach J. W. Stewart's 1925 team won every dual meet, tied Washington for first honors in the Seattle relay carnival, took third place in the fastest conference meet in America, and with two men, sweet and Gillette, placed fourth in the National Inter-collegiate track and field meet at Chicago. State and conference records were broken with ease by the Grizzlies, who gained nation-wide sports fame by their prowess on the cinder paths.

Loss Two Men

George Astell, last year's captain, and Force Baney, pole vaulter, are the only two point winners who will not compete this spring. Montana will be strong in all events with a wealth of hurdlers, sprinters, jumpers, vaulters, distance men and weight tossers, striving for berths. The relay teams are intact and everything points to a most successful season. A number of sophomores and other candidates including Adams, Miller, Davis and several others, have reported for workouts. Miller is a pole vaulter and high jumper of exceptional ability, while Adams ran several fast 440-yard dashes as a member of the rearing squad last year.

After the quadrangular meet in Spokane, in which teams from Washington State college, Idaho, Gonzaga, and Montana will compete, the Grizzlies will participate in the Seattle relays on May 1. Several noted athletes, including Charley Hoff, pole vaulter, will take part in special events. Montana will send relay teams to Seattle and will enter men in the special events. The only dual meet to be held here is scheduled with Idaho on May 8. The Vandals furnished plenty of opposition last spring and expect to put just as formidable a team on the paths this spring. Following the dual meet, the state inter-collegiate meet will be held here and then comes the annual Coast conference meet at Palo Alto, Cal. The National Inter-collegiate also bids for premier Montana athletes.

Track Handicaps

The Grizzlies will be handicapped for a time while the track is being put into running condition. Until the work is completed the squad will use the oval and the old cinder straight-away back of the bleachers, which has been dragged and rolled. Tom Swearingen, maintenance engineer, estimates that it will require two weeks to put the new track in first class shape. The arrival of a 3,000 pound roller is expected daily and this will greatly facilitate the work.

Montana track athletes who will be back, and their records for last season:

Russell Sweet—First in 100-yard dash in three dual meets, relay meet and Coast conference meet; first in 220-yard dash in two dual meets, Coast conference meet, and second in Bobcat meet; first in broad jump in three dual meets; first in high jump in two dual meets, second in Bobcat meet.

SCHEDULE COMPLETE FOR WATER CARNIVAL

Montana's first swimming meet will be held March 19 in the University swimming pool. Only 25 men have signed up for the meet and others who have any ability as a swimmer or diver are urged to join at once. To make it one of Montana's biggest sports there should be 50 or 60 men entered.

In addition to the diving and swimming events, a class relay will be featured. The class presidents are urged to pick the relay team and the captain or manager immediately, so that there will be no delay in the feature event.

The meet will be open to all University men. Gold medals will be awarded to the winners in the different events, with the exception of the relay race, which will be an inter-class affair. Men and women will be permitted to view the contests.

Following is the list of events for the meet:

40-yard free style.
Fancy diving contest.
220-yard free style.
Plunge for distance.
80-yard free style.
Inter-class relay, 160 yards, four-man team.

South Hall Proctors Defeat Picked Squad by Decisive Count

After training for two months the picked freshman team of South Hall, playing under the name of "The Shamrocks," received a drubbing from the Proctor team, selected on a moment's notice, in a basketball game Saturday night. During the entire contest, the Proctors held their opponents bewildered by their strong defense, and disheartened by their accuracy in filling the basket.

Morrow, forwarding for the Proctors, topped the evening's tallying with eight points. He successfully reached the basket from the center of the floor in three of his four field goals. Diamond, the other forward, and Kumer, substituting early in the game, made the fray fast enough to worry the Shamrocks. Larsen and McClernan as guards limited their opponents to few close shots. Ulvestad as center had no difficulty in taking the tip-off from Himsel, jumping for the Shamrocks.

The freshmen, disheartened at the surprising speed of the Proctors, played a losing game from the beginning. Himsel and Powell gave the Proctors their only competition. This fray ended all arguments to the basketball list of South Hall.

SPORTY-VENTS

All who have tired of sipping tea, filling formal dance programs and lollygagging will get a chance to change the routine tomorrow night. The M men have gathered an array of leather smackers and grapplers who can't help but give you an evening of unique and thrilling entertainment. In former years women—with or without escorts—have enthusiastically witnessed all the events, and this year promises to be no exception.

An additional feature to the card will be the fencing battle between Crippen and Shull. Crippen qualified for the finals by defeating McCarthy 35-29.

Bobby Morris, premier whistle blower of the Northwest, has chosen the following men for the first two basketball teams in the northern division of the Coast conference:

First Team
Schuss, Wash., forward
Baker, O.A.C., forward
Okerberg, Ore., center
Jost, Ore., guard
Westergren, Ore., guard

Second Team

Hobson, Ore., forward

Gunther, Ore., forward

Kain, Mont., center

Burr, O.A.C., guard

Dahlquist, Wash., guard

George Varnell picked the entire Oregon quintet as his all-Coast five. The Daily Californian, in naming all-coast teams, put Ilman at center on the second team, and mentioned Kain and Coyle as having made enviable basketball records.

"Hank" Lefebvre, spectacular halfback of the U.S.C. Trojans, is engaged to a former Montana co-ed, Miss Lillian Ludwig, who went to U.S.C. from here and was declared the "perfect girl" in a beauty contest at that institution, and Lefebvre recently announced their engagement.

The Physical Education department is anxious to have everyone interested in track enroll in the P. E. track classes, which count toward P. E. requirements, for the next quarter. There will be two classes, one at 11 o'clock under Coach Stewart and one at 3 o'clock under Harry Adams. All men who have done something in track and wish to develop themselves can join these classes and thereby better their opportunities to make Varsity material. There will be small meets between the various classes and squads during the quarter. These classes meet three times a week, and the regular Varsity and freshman coaching plan is used in instruction. Of course all men out for the fresh and Varsity track squads will continue to report at 4 o'clock.

If you are interested in knowing how the stickers lined up on last year's ball club, here are the figures for their batting in conference tilts:

Anderson	333	Ilman	222
Kelly	303	Stowe	219
Shoebottom	286	Berg	172
Meagher	270	Tarbox	143
Hanson	250	O'Connor	056

FRAGILITY

The Bud of Love Crumbles With Falsity

Two figures sat on the front steps of old Main hall.

"Love is a fragile rosebud waiting for the lover sun to bring the outside world," whispered a male voice softly.

"Oh, you're so different," tilted across lips that showed black in the darkness but that were red and warm and alluring.

The spool of human destiny slipped from the hands of a forgotten God in an Olympian workshop where the threads of men's lives are wound carefully on wooden spindles and the ends tied in tiny hard knots.

The unknown God muttered an immortal oath—and a few minutes from the past stood face to face with the present on the steps of old Main hall.

Two shadows sauntered slowly up the walk and sat on the bottom step. In some unexplainable manner the lights on Craig hall porch did not perish in passing through the bodies of the newcomers.

"Isn't it delightful tonight, dear?" spoke a restfully promising voice, "what did you do at the Hawthorne meeting?"

"We debated on the practicality of extending equal political rights to women."

A contented minute intervened as a head rested on a shoulder and lips crushed fragrantly under other lips.

"Love's like a rosebud that waits for the sun to open its eyes to the world," breathed the heavier voice.

"Oh, you are so different," cooed the other.

An irate God in that far away factory gave the offending spool a quick twist and the few minutes from the past died . . . gently.

Only one couple remained on the steps of old Main hall.

The clock struck ten times and the two figures stirred as if freshly awakened.

"We must hurry home," the girl whispered.

Realizing that interest in debate at the University of Washington is lagging, officials of the four debate clubs on the campus have chosen the question: "Resolved, that life is not worth living," for the winter quarter inter-club debates. They hope that interest will be aroused by the unusual character of the question.

SMITH'S DRUG STORE

"Mind doesn't always triumph over matter," remarked Henry sadly as he sniffed at a stray powder puff.

"Oh, yes, it does. Haven't you ever listened to some of these professors talking?"

"If you'd been with me to Varsity Vodvil the other night you'd know different, even if your exponents of sincerity, unrestrained ego and free drinks say otherwise."

"What has Varsity Vodvil to do with this matter, Henry?"

"Well, you see, there were three acts as sorta a preliminary to this here Venus contest they are going to have down town, and then there were four acts that depended on brain work for their sparkle. Do you know which won?"

"Sure, brains always win."

"You're all covered with water. A pair of low-rolled sox on good models are worth more than ten years of conscientious college endeavor on a ready cerebrum."

"Do you mean to tell me that a couple dozen pairs of rolled sox won first prize?"

"Yes sir, and I don't mean indecision. Why, Bill, these here sororities hid all the bum looking legs behind beautiful scenery and the rest of the limbs were covered by a close scrutiny. The only trouble the judges had was trying to decide how to divide two cups among the three exhibits."

"Gosh, Henry, that upsets all my theories of life."

"Oh, don't let that worry you. A good looking female could do you lots more dirt without rolling more than her eyes."
